

The GIMA Awards 2010

1st July 2010 at The Midland Hotel, Manchester

Sponsors

Without the generous support of our sponsors, the GIMA Awards would not be the event it is, and we thank our sponsors for their valuable support. Most of them need little if any introduction:

Tesco is Britians' largest retailer where home garden and DIY plays an important role in the product mix.

Founded in 1969, and now the largest DIY & Garden retailer in Europe, B&Q is another Great British company.

Glee is the leading trade show for the garden retail industry.

GTN is the best trade title dedicated to the garden and leisure industry. GTN is a 'must read' for every retailer and supplier in our trade.

FCL is committed to achieving the best possible service you could ever wish for in the movement of your goods around the world, whether by air, sea or land. If you have product to move, give them a call.

CIM is the leading international body for marketing and business development and a must for all professional marketers. CIM offers everything from qualifications to advice and sources of help.

Stax provides wholesale support for independent retailers & trades people across the country including garden centres, DIY and more.

The Pet Product Retailers' Association is concerned with the special business interests, needs and welfare of Pet Product retailers in the UK.

Gardenex is committed to helping create export trade opportunities through its services to British garden and leisure product manufacturers and overseas buyers looking for the best sources of supply.

The British Agricultural and Garden Machinery Association has been supporting agricultural, ground care and garden machinery dealers for over 90 years and is the trade association for independent machinery dealers.

The GCA is committed to supporting and maintaining quality standards amongst the best independent garden centres in the UK.

Gardenforum keeps you up to date with news and views in the garden retail industry – the only online news you need!

Britain's biggest weekly gardening newspaper is packed full of gardening tips, ideas and inspiration as well as all the latest news, new plants and products. Regular product pages are a brilliant way to get your products known to a large audience of passionate gardeners.

Solving all your gardening problems every month, Garden Answers is the most practical gardening monthly for consumers. No garden industry staff room should be without one every month to inspire and encourage your team.

Fashion for plants is the best way to describe the range of pot covers from Scheurich. Their colourful pot range is unrivalled with something to suit every taste. They fit every pot perfectly, are waterproof and made to a quality that makes great value for money.
